ITINERARY

DAY 01:: ARRIVE IN KATHMANDU | 1,300m /4,264 ft

Upon arrival at Kathmandu International Airport, our airport representative and guide will be awaiting you, holding a placard bearing our company name. You will receive a warm Sherpa welcome and cheerful greetings before being transferred to a luxurious 5-star city hotel. Once checked in, feel free to explore the vibrant Thamel market area. Our guide will assist you in navigating the area if needed. A meeting will be arranged at the hotel to provide a comprehensive briefing about your upcoming trek. Here, you can settle any remaining payments, exchange currency, and check your gear. If necessary, you can purchase or rent additional gear in Kathmandu.

DAY 02:: DRIVE TO BESISAHAR BY CAR | 760M/2494 feet

After indulging in breakfast at one of Kathmandu's finest 5-star hotels, our Sherpa guide and experienced driver will be ready at the hotel. Today's journey takes us to Besisahar, a distance of approximately 177 km (110 miles) from Kathmandu, which typically spans about 5-6 hours by car. Rest assured, we provide a comfortable car and a skilled driver for your convenience.

During the drive, take breaks as needed to savor tea or coffee and soak in the picturesque views of Nepal's countryside. As we progress, marvel at the stunning scenery unfolding around us. Upon reaching Besisahar, be captivated by the sight of the snow-capped peaks of Lamjung Himal, which adds an extra touch of grandeur to the landscape. Lunch will be provided en route, ensuring you stay energized for the journey ahead.

DAY 03:: DRIVE TO DHARAPANI | 1,860 meters/6,102 feet

Today, after enjoying breakfast at our hotel in Besisahar, we will embark on a thrilling journey by jeep to Dharapani. The road from Besisahar to Dharapani is unpaved, consisting only of gravel, yet it promises an adventure like no other. Along the way, we will be treated to breathtaking views of majestic waterfalls, charming villages, and snow-capped peaks.

While many opt for a direct drive from Besisahar to Chame, we, as an expert Sherpa company with over 25 years of experience, do not recommend this route. Our expertise has taught us that successful trekking hinges greatly on proper acclimatization. Driving directly to Chame from Besisahar increases the risk of altitude sickness. Therefore, our itinerary is meticulously designed to ensure gradual acclimatization before progressing further.

By following our carefully planned route, we aim to guarantee that you acclimatize effectively, thereby maximizing your chances of a safe and enjoyable trekking experience.

DAY 04:: TREKKING TO CHAME | 2,670 meters /8,760 feet

After breakfast, our trek begins from Dharapani towards Chame, promising a stunning journey through the heart of the Annapurna region. The trail unveils breathtaking landscapes and cultural encounters as we ascend gradually into the Himalayan terrain. En route, we're treated to panoramic views of snow-capped peaks, cascading waterfalls, and terraced fields adorned with rhododendrons, all while passing through charming villages. Upon reaching Chame, the administrative hub of Manang District, we're greeted by majestic views of Annapurna II and Lamjung Himal. Our expert Sherpa guide ensures a safe ascent, emphasizing proper acclimatization. Tonight, we'll rest in a top-notch lodge in Chame, enjoying comforts like hot showers and cozy beds.

DAY 05:: TREK TO UPPER PISANG | 3,300 meters/10,827 ft

After enjoying a delightful breakfast served by the Athilaya Mountain Lodge, you will hike to Upper Pisang from Chame, which takes approximately 4-5 hours. It is highly advised to walk slowly and drink plenty of water to stay hydrated, which is crucial in high altitudes. Along the way, you will encounter picturesque landscapes, cross the Marsyangdi River, and pass through quaint villages like Bhratang. You will also enjoy great views of the Annapurna and Manaslu ranges.

Nestled at an elevation of around 3,300 meters (10,827 feet), Upper Pisang offers an elevated perspective with captivating views, particularly of Annapurna and Gangapurna. Enjoy a serene stay at a top local lodge, immersing yourself in the breathtaking surroundings.

DAY 06:: TREK TO MANANG | 3,540 meters/11,614 feet

Following breakfast in Ngawal, we set out on our trek. It's about a 2-3 hour journey from Ngawal village to Manang, but time may vary depending on our own pace and any breaks we take. The trail treats us to stunning vistas of the Annapurna and Gangapurna mountain ranges. Descending gently to the Marsyangdi River, we then ascend to reach Manang, positioned at around 3,540 meters (11,614 feet) above sea level.

Manang holds great significance along the Annapurna Circuit, boasting a unique culture and traditional architecture. It serves as a crucial acclimatization point for trekkers heading to higher altitudes. Upon arrival, we'll enjoy lunch before our Sherpa guide leads us on a hike to explore the village, aiding in our acclimatization process.

DAY 07:: ACCLIMATIZATION DAY IN MANANG | Day hiking

Today, under the watchful guidance of our seasoned Sherpa, we embark on a vital journey of acclimatization amidst the high altitudes of Manang. With over two decades of expertise, our Sherpa will ensure your well-being as we tread through the stunning landscapes. Two enchanting paths lay before us: one leading to the majestic Gangapurna glacier and its neighboring peaks, while the other winds its way towards the serene Praken Gompa. Feeling spirited? Why not indulge in both adventures? Embrace the day with our amiable Sherpa, basking in the splendor of the surroundings and the genuine warmth of our service.

DAY 08:: TREK TO YAK KHARKA | 4,050 meters /13,287 ft

After two nights in Manang, acclimatizing to the altitude, our trek to Yak Kharka begins, weaving a mesmerizing tale within the Annapurna Circuit. Departing from the culturally rich village of Manang (at 3,540 meters or 11,614 feet), we ascend alongside the Marsyangdi River, treated to breathtaking views of the Annapurna and Gangapurna ranges.

As we leave Manang, the landscape shifts to an alpine environment. Crossing the Jharsang Khola, we traverse lush pastures and juniper woodlands. Yak Kharka, resting at approximately 4,050 meters (13,287 feet), serves as a seasonal grazing area for yaks during the monsoon. It provides a serene resting spot before our ascent to higher altitudes. The trek from Manang to Yak Kharka typically takes 3-4 hours, covering around 9 kilometers, depending on our pace and breaks.

DAY 09:: TREK TO THORONG PHEDI | 4450m/14599.74 ft

After breakfast, our trek from Yak Kharka to Thorang Phedi begins. The path first leads us to Ledar, a settlement reached after a hike from Yak Kharka. As we climb further, we pass cliffs offering commanding views until we reach Thorang Phedi. This spot is crucial for resting before the tough ascent to Thorong La Pass. While high camp lodges are available, our 26+ years of experience recommend staying at Thorang Phedi to acclimatize properly for the next day's pass crossing.

This part of the journey treats us to splendid views of notable peaks like Mt. Gundang, Mt. Syagang, Thorung Peak, and Mt. Khatungkan. The Nepali term "Phedi" refers to the foot of a foothill, adding a local touch to the landscape. The terrain becomes rugged, giving us a taste of the challenges and beauty ahead on the route to Thorong La pass. After an early dinner, it's essential to retire early tonight in preparation for the early morning start tomorrow, around 4 o'clock, for the long trek ahead.

DAY 10:: CROSS THORONG LA PASS | 5416-m/17770 ft.

In the early morning, we'll provide hot tea and coffee along with a packed breakfast to ensure a warm start to our day. Led by our expert Sherpa guide, we embark on our journey from Phedi at 4 am, a crucial timing to reach the pass before 10 am and avoid strong winds at the high altitude of 5,416m. Despite the steep trail, well-trodden paths used by locals for centuries make the ascent manageable.

After about 4 hours of steady climbing, we reach the Chorten and prayer flags marking the high pass. The panoramic views from this point are simply breathtaking, encompassing snow-covered mountains above and the Kali Gandaki valley below, with the stunning hills of Mustang in the distance. The descent, although challenging on the knees, offers spectacular views of Dhaulagiri. After approximately three hours, we arrive at the sacred village of Muktinath, renowned as a Hindu pilgrimage site, where we're treated to excellent views of Dhaulagiri, Tukuche Peak, and Nilgiri. At Muktinath, you will be accommodated in one of the Luxury Hotels with 360-degree views.

DAY 11:: TREK TO JOMSOM | 2,720 meters/8,922 feet

The journey from Muktinath to Jomsom offers a breathtaking variety of landscapes. As you descend, you'll be treated to stunning views of the Nilgiri and Dhaulagiri mountain ranges amidst arid terrain. The trail gradually shifts, blending barren hills with picturesque valleys.

Approaching Jomsom, the scenery transforms into a desert-like setting, characterized by dusty winds and sparse vegetation. Along the way, the Kali Gandaki River accompanies your path, leading you to the famed apple orchards of Jomsom.

For those opting to drive, the route follows the scenic Kali Gandaki River, revealing panoramic mountain views and unique geological formations. Passing through quaint villages, you'll glimpse into local life in the Mustang region.
