Mount Annapurna South was first ascended in 1964 by a Japanese team, via the North face. Our Annapurna south expeditions adventure journey starts from Kathmandu to Pokhara by private bus. We spent one night in Pokhara then following day, we drive to Nayapul then we trek to Ghandruk Village. We trek through beautiful village of Gurung and Magar villages. As we hike higher altitude through the rhododendron woodlands, the views of Annapurna and Mount Machhapuchhre are wonderful panoramas and towards the Modi River, the green vegetation valley's lovely views are there on the way.

For ascending Annapurna South looks easy from North East route of side and the base camp will be at Annapurna Sanctuary at 4300 meters. The south face base camp is situated at 4000 meter & the advance base camp is on west bank of the glacier between Annapurna South & Mount Himchuli. Ascent up to the glacier is a little bit hard gullies on all sides. The camp 1 is set at the 5000 meter. Camp-2 is fixed at 5970 meter; and camp 3 is at 6400 meter high. From Camp 3 the summit can be made.

After finishing the Annapurna South expedition, on our return trek to Pokhara leads us via Ghorepani and Poon Hill where you can imagine one of the most famous panoramic views of Mount Annapurna and Dhaulagiri range.
